Leisure

The river Léguer and its tow path run through Lannion, the historical capital of Trégor.

From Lannion, the Côte de Granit Rose welcomes hikers and nature lovers to discover its magical playground. A sand-yacht race on the Lieue de Grève, a kayaking expedition along the coast of Ajoncs, a nature outing in the Seven Islands' Nature Reserve or an improvised dance lesson during a Fest-noz.

Nestled in the peaceful valley of the Léguer, between the Côte de Granit Rose and the Côte des Bruyères, Lannion is also an important technology center particularly for the electronic, IT and Telecoms sector.

For everyone, Trégor offers treasures and endless thrills.

- Lannion with its half-timbered houses and carved eaves welcomes you just a short distance from the sea. Follow the towpath which will lead you down the banks of Léguer to the river's estuary.
- The 7 Islands Nature Reserve : Off the coast of the Côte de Granit Rose and Perros-Guirec, the 7 islands are the theatre for a magnificent ballet: with more than 20 000 pairs of seabirds and 27 nesting species, it is the most important reserve on the French coast.
- Ploumanac'h : Relentlessly sculpted by the waves and the wind, the rocks of Ploumanac'h have taken strange forms and an equilibrium which defies reason. Ploumanac'h is a part of the most beautiful villages of France.
